Club Newsletter for June 2015

President's Krausening

By Jim Gress

Summer is upon us, and our busy anniversary year continues. Our collaboration project is well under way with most of our groups beginning their homebrew-scale pilot recipe beers. Big Brew had its usual good participation last month and members are prepping to bottle the barrel-aged beer from 2014 to make room in the barrel for this year's brew. The annual Brew & Canoe campout is coming up the weekend of June 19-21. And, before we know it, it'll be time for Son of Brewzilla and the SNOBtoberfest campout. Those are just the club events. Don't forget about the Ohio State Fair, LMHBA's King of the Mountain competition, the National Homebrewers' Conference, Ohio Beer Week, Cleveland Beer Week and other events that will come up. So much beer, so little time!

With so much going on, please to remember to check the club calendar regularly on the SNOB website www.beersnobs.org. As well, be sure to join the SNOB group on Facebook if you haven't already done so – it's a good resource for keeping up with events and impromptu get-togethers with members.

The Brew & Canoe campout is coming up in just a few weeks. We'll have a sign-up sheet at the meeting to help with planning. Mark Rames is trying to coordinate some firewood collection and preparation for the event – so touch base with him at the meeting if you can pitch in.

Our theme for this month's meeting will be hops. We'll have a presentation with an overview of hops from growing to glass. We'll make some time to talk about varieties, different methods of introducing hops into the brewing process, some hops-related equipment, and some post-fermentation hopping methods.
